There were many African Americans sent out from the Inter-American Division and Europe who also served as missionaries. This list includes only those with permanent residence in the North American Division (NAD) or citizens of NAD countries (United States, Canada, Bermuda).

I have not made Bermuda a mission field. It was a mission when Alvin Goulbourne was a missionary there in 1957, but in 1959 Bermuda was officially organized and became a part of the Atlantic Union, thus a part of the NAD. Except for Alvin Goulbourne, I did not include anyone who worked in Bermuda, Hawaii, or Alaska.

In some instances, I was not sure if missionaries were sent out under the Inter-American Division (IAD) or the NAD. Some lived and worked in both places. If they retired, and since retirement, are not living in the NAD but are living in the IAD, I did NOT include them.

There were many who volunteered for special service and volunteer service for a short period, and there were many student missionaries; however, these are not included here. Included here are those who served for more than a year outside of the North American Division.

Last names are in bold. Single women who served before they were married will show their maiden name in bold followed by their married name in regular type (i.e. Ruth Faye Smith Davis). Many missionaries have doctorates in various fields. In these two lists, the term “Dr.” is used to designate medical personnel only.

Those with an asterisk (*) in front of the name were included in the first book and are not detailed in this second book. Their names are on the list so that we can get a complete picture of those who served as missionaries. Those who served before 1920 will be detailed again in book two since I have more information on them.
